Week of April. 11th

I was writing Technical Product Specifications with my team, and I designed some diagrams to show how the communication method works.

Some of the diagrams that I designed:

This diagram shows how the mobile app communicates with the server and database.

This week, I was studying and designing the ways the mobile and web applications communicate with the server and database.

Also, this week I bought a course from Udemy website that teaches me how to build a complete product with Node.js.

Link of the course: https://www.udemy.com/course/nodejs-api-masterclass/